The pilgrimage is considered a holy journey and is an important part of the Hindu tradition. During the Wari, students of Dr. D. Y. Patil College of Pharmacy, Akurdi, Pune, showed immense responsibility towards society by distributing medicines to the pilgrims known as varkaris. The main goals of this event was to educate students about Indian heritage and the significance of the Pharmacy field in daily life. It was a noble initiative in which alumni of institution provided medicines for donations. Students volunteers packed all the necessary medicines and sealed them in pouches for a handy distribution. Under the direction of Principal Dr. N. S. Vyawahare Sir and Faulty coordinator Mr. Mukesh Mohite, Alumini of DYPCOP and the students of Second Year and First Year B. Pharm volunteered for the Ashadhi Vhari 2022. Students and staff members interacted with the Varkaris and distributed medicines.

subject: Request for Medical assistance for my operation

Respected Sirs

I am writing to respectfully request medical assistance from our College for an urgent medical condition that requires immediate attention. I understand that our college has a program or fund in place to assist students in times of medical needs, and I am hopeful that I may qualify for support.

I have recently been diagnosed with urethral stricture, and recommended treatment plan involves a series of medical procedures and associated with expenses. Unfortunately, my personal financial situation does not work me to cover these costs entirely on my own. The financial burden of the medical treatment is weighing heavily on me and my family, and I am reaching out to our college with the hope of receiving assistance during this challenging time.

Thank you once again for your attention to my request. I eagerly await your response and am hopeful for a positive outcome.

with sincere appreciation,

Subject: Gratitude for Exceptional Medical Assistance provided by our college.

I am writing to express my deepest gratitude for the generous financial support by our college for my recent operation. Your assistance has made a significant impact on my life, and I am forever grateful for your compassion and support during this challenging time.

I was overwhelmed with both the physical and emotional burden it presented. However, thanks to the funding provided by our college, 20,000 was very huge amount for me and because of this I was able to proceed with the operation without the additional worry of financial strain. The weight lifted off my shoulders allow me to focus solely on my health and recovery, and for that, I am eternally grateful.

I also want to acknowledge the faculty and staff at our college who have played a significant role in shaping my academic journey.

Thank you once again for the invaluable support and financial assistance provided by you. Your generosity has given me the opportunity to pursue my education with renewed hope and determination.

with sincerest gratitude,

'A kind gesture can reach a wound, only compassion can heal'

It's great to share that through the funds raised by our alumni, we are distributing food packets to the poor and those in a helpless situation during the lockdown due to the COVID 19 outbreak. We have transferred the amount collected to the 'Saad Pratishthan Pune Trust' who are continuously feeding the poor during this crucial period.

We make a living by what we get but we make a life by what we give.

We express our utmost gratitude to our alumni for this kind gesture by them and carrying out their responsibilities towards the society by contributing their part.

Regards

Dr. D. Y. Patil College of Pharmacy had organized a guest session on "Global scenario of pharmaceutical market". Mr. Het Shaha, a former student of our college, delivered the speech for the session. He informed the students on recent developments in the pharmaceutical industry, such as new research and advancements. He also spoke on the global market's prospective future. This session aims to access, analyze and highlight opportunities and problems of the Indian pharmaceutical sector in the broader national health-care industry. The recent changes in the field, at the institutional and corporate levels, have placed India in the spotlight of the global pharmaceutical market, but several threats and weaknesses could limit this expansion. Mr. Het Shaha, focused on a global overview of the potential growth and development of the Indian pharmaceutical sector, comparing it with internal trends and external competition. The most relevant contribution of the research relies on the shift to innovative production that Indian companies must adopt (after years of focusing only on generic drugs), and in this vein, appropriate industrial marketing solutions are indispensable. The discussion was both educational and engaging.

Business development is a combination of strategic analysis, marketing, and sales. Business development professionals can be involved in everything from the development of their employers' products and services, to the creation of marketing strategies, to the generation of sales leads, to negotiating and closing deals. The job of the business development professional is typically to identify new business opportunities.

whether that means new markets, new partnerships with other businesses, new ways to reach existing markets, or new product or service offerings to better meet the needs of existing markets and then to go out and exploit those opportunities to bring in more revenue.

She focused on the business possibility for some scientific idea, often in embryonic stage. Their survival as companies and growth relies on the quality of the science but to a great extent on the team: the inventiveness of the scientists and other founding members, who, in order to transform the ideas into products, need access to money – often a lot of money, when it comes to the development of products for human health.

Dr. D. Y. Patil College of Pharmacy had organized a guest session on 'Computer aided docking studies' The speaker for the session was Mr. Saurabh Wadghar, he guided students about the Computer aided docking studies and the job available in this arena.

The session was on Computer-aided Docking Studies was conducted, aimed at providing attendees with an overview of the use of computational methods to study protein-ligand interactions. The session covered various aspects of computer-aided docking studies, including the fundamental concepts and techniques used in the process.

The session began with an introduction to protein-ligand interactions, emphasizing the importance of understanding these interactions in drug discovery and design. The students then explained the concept of molecular docking, which is a computational method used to predict the binding orientation and affinity of a ligand to a protein.

The session then moved on to the process of molecular docking, which involves three main steps: preparation of the protein and ligand structures, search of the conformational space, and evaluation of the docking results. The students explained each step in detail and highlighted the importance of each step in the overall process. The session also covered various techniques used in molecular docking, including docking algorithms, scoring functions, and visualization tools. The students explained how these techniques are used to optimize protein-ligand interactions and to predict the binding affinity and selectivity of a ligand.

The session concluded with a discussion on the applications of computer-aided docking studies in drug discovery and design. The students highlighted the advantages of using computational methods over experimental methods, including cost-effectiveness, speed, and the ability to predict the properties of new ligands before synthesis.

Overall, the session was informative and engaging, with the students doing an excellent job of explaining the complex process of computer-aided docking studies. The session highlighted the importance of understanding protein-ligand interactions in drug discovery and design and the role of computational methods in facilitating this understanding. The attendees gained a good understanding of the subject matter, and the students are to be commended for their excellent work in conducting the session.

Dr. D. Y. Patil College of Pharmacy had organized a guest session on 'Recent trends in digital Marketing'

The speaker for the session was Mr. Akshay Chobe sir, He guided students about the upcoming marketing and customer connection strategies in world of digital marketing

In recent years, digital marketing has become increasingly important for businesses of all sizes. With the rise of social media, mobile devices, and online shopping, consumers are spending more time online than ever before. As a result, companies are investing heavily in digital marketing strategies to reach their target audiences and drive sales. One trend that has emerged in digital marketing is the use of social media influencers. Influencers are individuals who have a large following on social media and are considered experts in their respective niches. Companies are partnering with these influencers to promote their products or services, as they have a high level of trust and credibility among their followers. Another trend is the use of chatbots and other AI-powered tools to automate customer service and support. Chatbots can answer basic questions, provide product recommendations, and even complete purchases for customers. This helps companies save time and money, while also improving the customer experience. Personalization is also becoming increasingly important in digital marketing. With the vast amount of data available on consumers, companies can now tailor their marketing messages to specific individuals based on their interests, preferences, and past behaviors. This leads to more effective and targeted marketing campaigns, as well as higher conversion rates. Finally, video marketing is a trend that is growing rapidly in popularity. With the rise of platforms like YouTube and TikTok, companies are creating engaging and informative videos to promote their products and services. Video is a highly engaging medium, and can help companies connect with their target audiences on a deeper level.

Report of Expert Talk

Topic : Impact of Communication in Pharmaceutical marketing

Date : 13/04/2018

Name of Speaker : Mr. Pratik Chuttar Executive,
Mother Dairy Fruit & Vegetable Pvt. Ltd. Pune.

A guest talk of our alumnus Mr. Pratik Chuttar was organized by Alumni Association of Dr. D. Y. Patil College of Pharmacy, Akurdi, Pune on topic "Impact of Communication in Pharmaceutical marketing" for students on 14th February 2017

Mr. Pratik started lecture with topic personality development- Personality is generally defined as the deeply ingrained and relatively enduring patterns of thought, feeling and behavior. In fact, when one refers to personality, it generally implies to all what is unique about an individual, the characteristics that makes one stand out in a crowd. Basically, according to experts through the ages, a person's personality is developed through the intermingling of hereditary and environmental factors. As a child grows, hereditary tends to play a smaller role, and the environment with the experiences thrown in contributes to the continuous process of personality development. While classes and training programs can help one grow and develop each day, yet one can actually climb the personality ladder by being aware of the self. In order to develop a healthy and popular personality one should delve deeper and deeper into positive thinking. One needs to understand that problems are a part and parcel of life; but it is the way in which one deals with the problems that determines whether one is going from strength to strength; or weakness to weakness. External personality traits are those that are visible from outside and internal traits are those that are not visible externally. Traits like your dressing sense, the way you carry yourself, the way you walk and talk, your etiquettes, etc are all part of your external personality. On the other hand, traits like honesty, integrity, compassion, sincerity, level of intellect, etc are traits that are difficult to judge externally. Here about personality development from the perspective of communication skills i.e. an external personality trait.

After personality development he talked about communication skills- Communication no doubt is an integral aspect of one's personality especially in the purview of a world setup where people are expected to be outgoing and socializing. If you feel inferior in front of people or hesitate in mixing with them or lack confidence in whatever you do, joining personality development courses can help. If you're living in metro like Delhi, finding out for such courses is not a big issue. You can easily find several personality development courses in Delhi. All you need to do is to find the one that suits your requirements and budget. Another important thing for improvising your communication is the ability to listen. Listening is a source of gathering information and ideas. It is only when you listen that you are able to develop ideas and opinions of your own. Unfortunately in communication skills and personality development not much attention has been given to the importance of listening.

He also discussed about importance of personality and communication- Today, effective communication skills have become a predominant factor even while recruiting employees. While interviewing candidates, most interviewers judge them on the basis of the way they communicate. They believe that skills can be improvised on the job; but ability to communicate well is important, as every employee becomes the representing face of the company.

Session was ended by a small question and answer session wherein doubts of few students were addressed by Mr. Pratik. The lecture has proven to be very inspiring and informative for the students Alumni can play an important role in the placement of students in a number of ways.

Firstly, alumni can provide job opportunities to current students by referring them to job openings at their companies or organizations. Since alumni have a personal connection to their alma mater, they may be more inclined to give students from their college or university a chance.

Secondly, alumni can serve as mentors to students, offering advice and guidance on job search strategies, interview preparation, and career development. They can share their own experiences and insights, providing valuable perspectives that can help students navigate the job market and succeed in their chosen fields.

Thirdly, alumni can participate in career fairs, networking events, and other job-related programs hosted by their alma mater, offering students the chance to connect with professionals in their fields of interest.

Overall, alumni can be powerful allies in helping students achieve their career goals. Their support can make a significant difference in the job search process, and their willingness to give back to their alma mater can help strengthen the ties between current students and their college or university community.

A new instrument's installation in a college lab can be an expensive and challenging operation. But with the assistance of one of our former students, Mr. Vijay Gajale, this work got lot simpler and more feasible. He offered his professional assistance in installing the Dissolution apparatus equipment that had been delivered by Evonik Ltd. in Mumbai. He explained the features and functions of this instrument to us.
