Report	Song, dance, colors, emotions, community-feels and electrifying energy, these are what describes a typical Ganesh Visarjan. This year, however, both grief and glee are different. On the one hand, devotees are happy to have hosted Ganpati even amid an on-going crisis, on the other; not being able say goodbye to him in the usual manner has pained many of them. However, still trying to keep up with the essence of the event, we decided to go green and take this opportunity to serve the environment. Devotees at Dr. D. Y. Patil Educational Complex, Akurdi, Pune bid farewell to Lord Ganesh as the curtains came down on the ten-day of Ganesh Chaturthi festival. The visarjan or immersion, which in previous years used to be an elaborate affair, was low-key in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic. The immersions took place in artificial water tank at the campus. The objective of the program was to inculcate cultural and regional teachings in the students and faculty.
